

ABSTRACT

Methods are provided for assessing the presence or absence of genetic alterations in a defined polynucleotide region as a means to diagnose and manage malignant disease.

5